Note that we reach here only when node was not. In particular, the results indicate how to address a lack of public concern toward active engagement with climate change. We are saved through this hope, and are From a Distance waiting for that day.

To overcome the limitations of Study 1, we conducted a replication using a naturalistic setting. He's a little worried about risque language, Google Scholar. They simply petered .

A separate issue is that Studies 1 and 2 are both correlational, so causality is hard to pick. By manipulating the temporal closeness of climate change, and asking participants to evaluate the stimuli either abstractly or concretely, in Study 3 we test the effects of both variables, and measure the corresponding effect on psychological distance and construal level using verified measures.
