Some ancient cottages still survive around the centre of the old village, and some local farmhouses date from the 17th century. The village church of the Holy Trinity was built in in Victorian gothic style and has a tall and elegant spire. It was one of the last canals to be built and was designed by Thomas Telford.

Reach35,familiesbyadvertisinginPrimaryTimesDerbyshire! Hi John. The true name of the village is actually Grindsbrook Booth, but it is commonly known by the name of the valley. Thanks again. Ijustattacked.Not only does the landscape change dramatically within a short distance from the heart of the village, but the weather - as all serious walkers will know can alter from brilliant sunshine to snowstorms in the space of a couple of hours.
